

Head of Commercial Business and International Affairs

In 2002 she begins working in the cultural field and the entertainment industry in Rome, Italy. From 2006 onwards, her work is primarily dedicated to feature film production, focusing on financing and international co-productions.

At Wildside today she is Head of Commercial Business and International Affairs, with the main activities being international co-productions and financing of both drama series and feature films.

She has worked on TV productions such as: "1992", "1993" and "1994" on the Italian political bribes scandal; "The Young Pope" TV debut of Academy Award winning director Paolo Sorrentino starring Jude Law followed by "The New Pope"; "The Miracle" and "Anna" by internationally acclaimed writer Niccolò Ammaniti and "My Brilliant Friend" season 1&2 based on the worldwide best-selling book saga by Elena Ferrante and directed for television by Saverio Costanzo; and on feature films such as: "Vincere" by Marco Bellocchio; "The Solitude of Prime Numbers" and "Hungry Hearts" by Saverio Costanzo, "Me and you" last feature film by Bernardo Bertolucci, all in competition at the principal film festivals: Venice, Cannes and Berlin.